The use of SNOMED CT to support retrieval and re-use of Question and Answer Sets for patient registries

Article

Jan 2010

● Rachel Richesson · ● Denise Shreff · ● Christine Spisla · [...] · ● James E. Andrews

Patient registries are a valuable research tool for understanding disease and can support new therapies. Diverse registry models, sponsors, and data requirements complicate efforts for the standardisation of registry Questions And Answer Sets (QAS). Bottom-up standardisation can be achieved by facilitating the re-use of existing questions through t...

Enhancement of Interoperability of Disaster-related Data Collection Using Disaster Nursing Minimum Data Set

Article

Feb 2009

● Christine Spisla

Data collected by nurses have the potential to aid in the disaster response if the necessary information can be extracted. The Disaster Nursing Minimum Data Set is proposed to strengthen the interoperability of information and data sharing between agencies to improve relief services to individuals and communities affected by a disaster. This study...
